CUBANS

Dauntless and Mabey Had No Contraband Stores on Board.

THEIR SCIZURE PROBABLY A MISTAKE

The Cruiser Raleigh Starts on a Hank for the "Mysterious" Island --- Weylar Sends Troops To Surround Maceo.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 23.-No official report has been received by collector of customs C. R. Bisbee of the firing on and the capture of the alleged Cuban filibustering tugs Dauntless and R. L. Maby off Jupiter inlet Wednesday by the United States cruiser Raleigh. The revenue cutter Boutwell left Jacksonville for the St. Johns bar yesterday to take charge of the Dauntless and escort her to the quarantine station at Fernandina, where she is now been fumigated. She will afterwards be brought to this port and delieved to the United States authorities. The tug R. L. Mabey. which was also captured, arrived at the bar yesterday in charge of a prize crew and will be brought to Jacksonville and delivered to the United States authorities. The causer Raleigh left for the south yesterday. It is said she is going to Turtle harbor to discover if possible the island on which it is said the Unbans have stored quantities of arms and ammunition. The firing on and seizure of the Dauntless and Mabey has caused indignation here and is regarded as high-handed on the part of Captain Miller of the Raleigh. Neither the Dauntless nor the Maybe had arms on board. The Dauntless had only ber regular crew and the Maybe had on board a cargo of coal. The coal was possibly intended for the Dauntless. but she had a right to take on board fuel. It is not believed that the govermment can do anything with either vessel. Col. Emilio Nunez, who has managed many filibustering expeditions, and thirty Cubans returned to this city last night from New Smyrna. It was off New Smyrna that the Raleigh fired on and captured the Danntless and Mabey.

Jacksonville, Pla., Oct. 23.-The law piesed by the last legislature, making at criminal to teach negroes and whites together, popularly known as the "anti-miscegenation law," has been held to be unconstitutional by Judge Rhydon M. Call of the judicial district. The decision was really on the title of the law and States Attorney Hartridge says the defect in the title of the bill may be remedied by the next legislature. The passage of the law caused great indignation on the part of the northern missionary societies which have schools in Florida, and they announced their intention of fighting it in the United States courts

Dr. Lee's Trial Soon To Be Called.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 23.-The state authorities say that the trial of the much-tried Dr. E. Edward Lee is to begin at once on the conclusion of the Morse arson case. In support of this it is stated that Miss Paimer called upon the state attorney and told him it was her intention to leave the state in order to avoid testi-

MISS WILLARD EXPLAINS.

Tells Why She Sent Armenians To Seek Homes in the United States.

London, Oct. 23.-Miss Frances Willard has issued a statement regarding the Armenian refugees who have been sent by Lady Henry Somerset from Marseilles to New York, some of whom have been refused admission to the United States by the immigration authorities. Miss Willard says that she and Lady Henry Somerset carefully studied the immigration laws of the United States and in response to a cablegram sent to the United States treasury department were informed that it was not necessary that the refugees have a specific sum of money as a prerequisite to their admission into the country, and that security against emigrants becoming public charges was accepted in special cases. Miss Willard therefore cabled to members of the Women's Christian Temperance union living in and adjacent to New York, asking them to provide homes for from twenty-five to thirty Armenians until they found work. She received replies promising places for 120. She was assured aid in the finding of homes for the remainder of the refugees in Marseilles who desired to go to America by the National Armenian committee of New York and the Salvation army. She therefore believed that the Armenians were secure of a safe landing. They specially sought to be sent to America, saving that the missionaries had always told them that it was the Lord's home for the oppressed. Miss Willard concludes by saving that she cannot find words to express the anxiety she feels lest the refugees be not admitted to her own native land.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The report from London that Sir Julian Panncefote, the British ambassador to the United States, now on his way to his post at Washington, is the bearer of instructions which is intended to effect a friendly settlement of the Venezuelan differences between Great Britain and the United States is given much credence in official circles here. but of course those who might be able to speak definitely in the matter will say nothing. One official did say, however, that the present negotiations between Great Britain and the United States were of the most amicable nature. It is understood here that the basis of settlement of the Venezuelan lispute was determined by Mr. Champerlain after a conversation with Secretary Olney during his recent visit to he United States. It has since been revised by Lord Salisbury.

TUMBLE IN WHEAT, PROBABLY

Millions of Bushels Poured on the Market at Chicago.

PRICES CUT NO FIGURE AT ALL

No One Anxious To Undertake the Responsibility of Carrying the Cereal Under Present Conditions---Verstable Panic on 'Change.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—There have been exciting days in the wheat market, but the closing hours yesterday outranked anything of recent date and probably in many years. A veritable panic existed at the close and millions of bushels were poured on the market, prices cutting no figure in the matter. The cash wheat situation has become the all-important factor. Money rates are higher and no one wishes to undertake the responsibility of carrying wheat under these conditions. The early market was weak, cables coming lower and foreigners selling. A period of comparative steadiness prevailed for two hours, but in the last half | bour confusion of the most extreme kind had possession of the pit and December dropped to five cents under Wednesday's close. San Francisco was said to be in a panic, which served to augment the disturbed feeling here. Closing English and continental quotations were all lower. The Cincinnati Price Current reported a favorable week for the crop. Receipts at Chicago were 235 cars and 123,064 bushels were taken from store. The Northwest had 1.050 cars against 1.087 a year ago. December wheat opened from 74 4c. to 73 ke. sold between 74 kg. to 70 kg., closing at 70-1c. -4 %c. under Wednesday. Corn and oats vielded unresistingly to the depressing influence of the weak wheat market.

WIRES AND BATTERY IN THE CELLAR

Local Police Give Way To Pinkerton Detectives and a Sensational Arrest Is Hinted At-If Murder, the Assassin Was Ingenious.

Yonkers, N. Y., Oct. 23.—The latest developments in the ghastly tragedy at the Arlington Chemical works prove almost beyond doubt that Hamlin J. Andrus met his horrible death at the hands of an incarnate assassin. Chief of Police Mangin has maintained from the outset that the unfortunate man had come to his end accidentally. Coroner Miles, on the other hand, stoutly proclaimed that murder had been done and pushed forward a rigid investigation. As a result of this the chief of police last night confessed that there is something in the murder theory, while the coroner states that he is absolutely certain that one of the most diabolical murders on record inthis vicinity had been committed. The case has been taken out of the hands of the local police and Pinkerton detectives have been called in. They are zealously at work to-day endeavoring to clear up the mystery. Three clues have been discovered-a piece of cord, some new wire, four electric batteries—all of which are believed to have played an important part in the killing of Mr. Andrus. From what can be learned, if the clues the detectives are working upon are correct. and they have all the evidence of so being, a sensational arrest will shortly be made.

Deeply Laid Plot.

The plot that resulted in the murder of Mr. Andrus was unquestionably deeply laid. The plotter was evidently an ingenious rascal. In searching the building yesterday for evidence this was made manifest. Near the window where the bomb was exploded was found a coil of wire. Tracing it it was found that wires ran down through a hole in the floor, used for the gas pipe, into the cellar. Upon going down there the searchers found, directly under the office where Mr. Andrus was killed four small dry batteries to which the wires were attached. The batteries ested on a plank connected with a large icebox near by. Both the wires and batteries were new and showed evidence of having been placed in posiof this contrivance, the result of which proved beyond doubt that Mr. Andrus was murdered deliberately. The wires were conducted to the wall at the rear end of the cellar and down to an old tashioned furnace. Here was where the assassin's ingenuity displayed itself. These wires were to arranged by running one over a protruding bolt on the furnace with a weight attached. that by pulling a string which was attached to one of the wire and ran outside the building the uninsulated ends of the wires came in contact and a circuit was created. As the wires led up to the office and connected with the bomb, it was easy for the assassin to explode it at his will. As Mr. Andrus could not be seen from the window where this cord was worked it is believed that the murderer was familiar with his routine duties and was well aware that Mr Andrus was in the room when the bomb was set off. Knew the Premises Well.

It has been declared that if murder were done the murderer was in some way connected with the institution. This would seem to be borne out by the fact that the cord attached to this wire was identical with that used in the various parts of the works. And, further, that the frame of the bomb was similar to material used about the factory. It is pretty clearly estabhshed that whoever devised the electrical contrivance knew a great deal about explosives and something about en ctricity.

Local Police Leave the Case,

The coroner has taken possession of all the stuff and he believes it will lead to the capture of the assassin-The very latest developments dispute the theory that the bomb was intended for John E. Andrus, brother of the murdered man. The Pinkerton men are working on a clue which shows a motive for the taking of Hamlin J. Andrus' life. Chief Mangin said to a reporter that Coroner Miles had kept from him all information concerning These taxes, with the revenue from the the tragedy and as a result he had five projected monopolies, will, it is been forced to withdraw his men from estimated, produce £1,200,000, which the case. The Pinkertons, he understood, were now at work on it and he would leave the whole matter to them.

New York Militia Not To Be Rearmed at Present

PROPOSED EXPENDITURE PROPPED

The Report in Favor of Savage Gun Not Approved by Gov. Morton, But Commission Acquitted of the Charge of Discrimination.

Albany, Oct. 23.—The Savage gun is not to be selected as the weapon with which to rearm the national guard. A committee was appointed last year by the governor to test guns of American manufacture and invention and select one to be adopted for the national guard. This commission comprised A. D. Shaw of Watertown, E. W. Bliss of Brooklyn and Robert H. Thurston of Ithaca. They unanimously recommended the selection of the Savage military magazine rifle and so reported to Gov. Morton. David Welch, as attorney for the Winchester Arms company of New Haven, Conn., and other competitors in the test asked the governor not to approve the report. They alleged collusion in favor of the Savage gun and held that Arthur W. Savage, the inventor, was a subject of Great Britain at the time the gun was patented in this country and that he had only become a citizen of the United States about a year ago. The Savage gun is controlled by a state corporation. If the governor had approved the commission's report, the adjutantgeneral would have had authority to expend $300,000 in buying Savage rifles.

No Unfair Discrimination.

The governor has declined to approve the report of the commission in favor of the Savage gun, and in a lengthy memorandum says: "It is intimated that the examiners were predisposed in favor of the Savage gun, and gave its representatives unusual and unfair opportunities to successfully compete with other guns really possessing superior merit: but the evidence submitted to me does not, I think, warrant the suggestion. So far as appears, the examiners undertook to afford the representatives of all guns submitted to the test an opportunity to show the merits, value and capacities of the weapons, and did not unfairly discriminate against any of them. The Savage gun was invented by an actual inhabitant of the United States, who has since become a citizen. It was manufactured here wholly of American material, and I think it is a gun of 'American invention and manufacture' within the fair meaning of the

The governor then says that while the adjutant-general's department seems to be committed to the policy of arming the militia with the gun used in the regular army, he is informed that the opinion among military men differs as to the wisdom and advantage of such a change. Agitation which was going on in military circles upon the subject, and because action of the examiners could not become effective without the governor's approval. he gives as his reason for signing the bill for the proposed change of guns. Then he says:

Guns Now in Use the Best.

"The whole subject of proper arms for infantry, not only in this country but among other nations, seems to be at present in an unsettled condition. During the interval since the passage or this law I have given the subject attention, and have been tayored with the opinions of many persons of high authority in military affairs, and I am advised that even the Remington riffs now in use by our national guard, and particularly the Springfield rifle in use by the national guard of other states, is much better for the use of the guard when called into active service in the state in maintaing peace or suppressing disorders than a magazine gun, such as is, perhaps, contemplated by the statute, and the report of the examiners. It is further suggested that a high grade magazine gun is not desirable for the national guard in time of peace, and that if the militia were called into service by the national government, new arms would probably be at once supplied. The suggestion is St. Louis where he addressed 5,000 also made that even if a magazine arm should be placed in the hands of the militia, they should still retain the arms they now have for use when called out in support of the civil authornties. I am also advised that the United States government has on hand about 210,000 Springfield rifles; that they are available for use by the militia and that a movement has been initiated to furnish them to the several states as desired." The governor then refers to the bill pending in congress providing for the arming of the national guard of the different states with Springfield rifles, thus securing uniformity in the arms used by the militia, and says he does not think the bill can properly be ignored and an expenalture of $300,000 made by the state. especially at a time of great business depression.

BRIGHT NEWSPAPER MEN

Solops" Which, When Published, Created Sensations.

Washington Correspondent Brought James Gordon Bennert to lime - fom Bivins' Interview with Dr. Bliss

[Special Washington Letter ? "Your story of Maj Carroll's scoop was interesting, 'says from Bivins, but I can tell you of another scoop which caused a great sensation on Newspaper

·You remember Herbert Preston who represented the New York Herald in Washington for so many years. It takes a good man to endure all of James Gordon Pennett's moods and renses but Preston was a nild mannered gentl man, and he maintained his connection with the Herold longer than any or his predecessors had done

I happened, however, that a new meneging editor was instailed in New York who unceremoniously removed Preston and appointed another in his place. Of course you know that every newspaper man has enem es in his own profession and there were plenty of rellows to such their tongu's in their cheeks, and crow over Preston's down-

But Preston never said a word. He made connection with a little newsia per in Buttimore which paid him very ittle, but still it kept him in new spaper vork as a Washington correspondent, and so he was seen dury on Nev spaper row. He never lost his grip and never lost his self-confidence. His enemies believed that he could never tise again and were satisfied to let him alone in his unostentations work

"But everything was changed in a moment, in a twinkling of an eve | 1 came downtown one morning about 11 o'clock and when I reached my office I found that there were excited crowds of correspondents all along Newspaper ros Something had happened It took me but a few moments to ascertain that that rittle Baitir, ore newspa per had printed the nev s of the standar involving Secretar, Belknap, and it was the only newspaper in the United States which had the story | The paper ves so obscure that only three copies were sent to Washington news stands. so I telegraphed over to Caltimore and had two copies sent to me

"I was representing the Globe-Democrat and the way old Joe McCullough fired hot telegrams into the Washington office made my hair sizzle The old man wanted to know, you know why his paper had not received the news. I hadn't time nor ability to run down that story at once so I reviote the facts contained in Pieston's fittle paper and telegraphed the story that night. In the meantime, the managers of other papers were firing telegrams into Washington, and burning up their correspondents for getting scooped on the greatest sensational news item of the year. The managing editor of the New York Her ald roasted his new correspondent, and finally asked for the name of the correspondent of the obscure Baltimore paper, which had printed the story The Herald man replied to his managing editor that he did not know. Then the m maging editor of the Herald tele graphed the Baitimore paper for the information and received a reply stating that the Washington correspondent was Herbert Preston

That telegram must have paralyzed the minaging editor. By removing Preston he had deprived the Herald of the best news item of a generation. But he had sense. He knew a good thing when he saw it. He min dately reappointed Preston as his Wishington correspondent and Preston resumed his aid desk without osientation. The tellows who had supposed that Preston was down forever, were surprised when he assumed charge of the Herald burchs . As a matter of fast, that was the only exclusive piece of valuable news that I ever knew to completely knock out all of the correspondents. Even tien Boynton acknowledged that he knew nothing of the matter until Preston printed it You know that on nearly every occasion the correspondents will try to belittle an exclusive item, or pretend that they know all about it. But nobody ever tried to whistle down the wind the great achievement of Herbert Preston - There were other newspaper feats performed by Preston, but that was the most notable. He printed forogn tienty iffines and other items of Schisive news in the Herald, and made or himself a valuable reputation, while it the same time he made for the Her-id an increased reputation "Once upon a tune I was doing space work for the New York Herald, and became well acquamited with Preston. I vas with him in 1581 when Gui held was snot. I went with him, and got him a card of admission to the executive mansion, and then I left hain He was away all day, and came into the office about seven o'clock that night, with not a single line of news, except the daily bulletin issued by the physiclans, and none of us newspaper men used those bulletins. The Associated Press usually handled them. Well, this big man from New York said that he had been confronted with trowel bayonets at every turn and when he did meet a citizen he could obtain no intormation, and said that he was go ing back home at once, and he weet Big newspapers make big mistakes when they send new men to improv upon the work of experienced men in such an emergency. No new man from New York or any other city could have some here at that time and improved upon my work Not much And, on the contrary, I could not have some to New York, Chicago or any other city and made an improvement in the work of experienced men there, on any notable event "

At that time Boxins was one or the most successful and energetic news gatherers in the national capital No newspaper man could beat him on ar. class of work Hence his praise of Heipert Preston is praise indeed. During the protracted suffering of President Garneld preceding his death, Dr D W Bliss, in charge of the case, would give no information to newspaper men concerning the real condition of his patient Every des bulletins were issued but they contained no reliable infermation. Dr. Bliss always spoke of the hopeful condition of the president and gave the impression that he expected the wounded man to recover Finally the managing editor of the Republican in this city, a paper with which Bivins was connected, told him to go and ascertain the real condition of the president, no matter how, but

Eivins went to the white house and saw Dr Dhes. He had an unusually long talk with him and tool down all he said in short hand. The interview strengthened the previous impressiongiven by the Bliss interviews that President Garfield would ultimately ecover It seems that the policy of grang out hopeful bulletins was regarded as a public necessity under all the circum stances Well, Bivins went to his of fice and wrote out the interview and handed it in to the managing editor saving that he would get further facts before midnight

Liery evening about seven o clock Dr. Bliss left the white house to go and visit several of his regular patients. He had given up nearly all of his practice and devoted his entire time to the wounded president, but in the evening for an hour or two he went in his bug gy to call on a few invalids who would not give him up Tom Bivins knew this fact and also knew that Bliss usually took a little wine with his supper, and that he was always more genial and companionable then than at any other time of day. So when Dr. Bliss came out of the white house that evening Bivins came out behind him and asked him for a ride. Dr Bliss said all right and Bivins got into the buggt with him. He talked to Bliss about his different patients asking all about their conditions and so forth. Bivins knew all of them and was interested in them.

Finally, after several patients had been visited and they were coming down the avenue, Bivins asked about Guifield - He caught the doctor exactly in the right mood. He told Bivins that Garfield could not possibly recover, and give the icasons for issuing favorable bulletins. There was no pledge of se crees, but of course he did not intend that Bivins should print what he said He felt that the newspaper man was off duty, but is a matter of firt a good newspapar man is always on duty

Livins fairly flew to the office when he left Bliss in I told the managing editor to prepire heidlines for parillel olumns for interviews with Dr. Bliss in the white house and in a buggy. He then sat down and wrote out the interview quoting Bliss fully and miking nearly half a column of the only real news and information that had ever been printed concerning the condition of the president and the impossibility of his recovery

That publication created a sensition Dr. Bliss made a sweeping denial of the interview and denounced Bivins in most bitter terms. But all newspip t mer I new that Brains was reliable and that his story was correct. Dr. 1 liss to the day of his deria never for a we Pivins for printing hacinterview. But Tom had been sent out to get the news somehow and rayhow and he got exactly all the information that all news paper men had been value trying to

by Many Israelites. Rev. Dr. Wise, president of the Hebrew Union college at Cincinnati, has given his view of the ancient Jewish rendering of the name of the Deity, reports the New York Sun. He says that the term "Jehovah," the ineffable tetragrammaton, is never pronounced by many Israelites. They use the word "Adonoi," which signifies "the Lord." The translators of the Bible followed this custom, rendering the word "Jehovah" as "Lord." In ancient times the Pharisees replaced the tetragrammaton by Shem; they used "Shemo," which is also Biblical, as the sacred name, and this name is yet retained, to some extent, among the Jews. But it would appear from passages in the 33% c. Psaims that Adonoi, or Lord, for Jehorah was more ancient even than the times of the Pharisees. It thus occurs eight times in Psalm Ixxxiv. It also appears in the book of Exodus where "Jehovah" had been used in the original Hebrew. This substitution would seem to be older than any other, and it is yet common among all Jews. Dr. Wise says he has found that the ancient translations testify in favor of "Adonoi."

Looking at the English translation of the Old Testament it will be found that the name Jehovah appears in the books of Genesis, Exodus, Judges, the Psalms and Isaiah. It is not in the New Testament.

The Press and Times published last night, a letter from Sherm Beakes to Connade Sproat which contained the important news that the Shariff has for given District Attorney Huschberg for his part in the game of freeze out inangulated by Boss Hock's command All has been rorgiven. Adam and Michael have embraced wept on each others shoulders, and their mingled feats have blotted out all memories of the Sherift's bear pickings during his first year in office and of the abortive attempt or the Sheriff and his comrades to get even with the District Attorney when he was a candidate for re-election last fall. The Sheriff assures an auxious public that he and ludge Huschberg are on the most mendly tooting and concludes by saving that he will give him his cordial and hearty support in his canvass and would be pleased to see his friends and comrades do the same. This is very beautiful and touching and the recept or such a letter must have meeted Comrade Sproat very death but to those who are not keyed up to the hysteria of reconciliation for political end- it will occur that the interests of matic, and the Sherm's personal interests and official good name require that he devote less time to political correspondence and more to watching his prisoners and to keeping tab on his none too competent deputies

HUNTERS ALL AFIELD.

Many Good Bags Made Testerday-Too Early for Rabbits.

Middletown sportsmen were all afield yesterday, and a large quantity of game was brought to town last evening. Some hunters secured as many as a dozen squirrels and rabbits, others but one or two, and some wasted lots of ammunition and got nothing. A few partridge and woodcock were brought in, but these bird-ar-by no means plentiful now in this locality.

Old time sportsmen do not look with favor on the slaughter of rabbits now going on, for the reason that these animals are thin in flesh at this season, a certain number of frosts and snows being regarded as necessary to bring them up to the condition that renders them fit or the table. The modern hunters however, are ready to kill and eat rabbits as soon as the law will allow, and make no distinction between a fat and a lean rabbit-they are all rabbits to them

SHOT A BLACK SNAKE.

William Louden Encounter, a Huge Reptile While Hunting for Game.

Among the Middletowners who went hunting, yesterday, was William Londen, who as usual had good success. He also had an experience that for a moment made his hair stand on end. He was in a piece of woods looking for partridge, quirrel or any other kind of game, when he heard a rustling in the brush which he at first thought was caused by the movements of a flock of quail. In a moment, however, a huge black snake appeared in front of him and coiled itselt in a threatening attitude. As soon as he could recover his selt possession he backed away a few steps and shot the reptile, which measured nearly six feet in length.

Encore—Armower's song from Robin Hood Schnecker March from Tannhauser Full Chorus.

Rev. R. B. Clark was, as usual, conductor, and Mrs. Mary F. Andrus, accompanist. The work of the chorus was up to their standard of excellence, winning for them the deserved approbation of the audience and the quartette of strings made music which was highly

Miss Stori, the soprano soloist, was engaged at the last moment to take the place of Miss Trances Miller, who, hecause of a sudden illness, could not sing the role of "Rebekah," as she had arranged to do. It was Miss Stor's first appearance before a Goshen audience, and she made a very favorable impres sion. She has a soprano voice of great flexibility which she handles well. Her rendition of Rebekah was a phenomenal one, as she had not seen the music until she started for Goshen in the afternoon or sing a note before the rehearsal or the society at 6:30 o'clock, last night

John I. Young, the tenor, also made his debut before a Goshen authence, last night. He is a young man, younger than soloists usually are, but has a remarkably pleasing voice and is thought by many to be the best tenor soloist who has ever appeared in the concerts of this society. The society's patrons will be pleased to hear him again. Concerning the singing of C. Judson Bushnell, much need not be said. He has sung too many times with the so-The Lehigh and New England railroad ciety in seasons past to make comment necessary. He was in excellent voice and is yet Goshen's most popular bass

He Is Eleven Years Old and Four Feet in Height

CUBAS BOY SOLDIER.

Little Rumon Stole a Mauser Rifle from a Spanish Soldier and Then Tramped a Long Distance to Join the Patriot Army.

The smallest soldier in the Cuban army is Ramon Fonseca, son of the tighting Col. Fonsoca, whose guerrilias worry the Spaniards about the city of Puerro Principe. He is 11 years old, and four teel in height, and weighs acout 85 pounds. He has been to school for a part of the time, but he knows more about skirmish lines than he does arout arithmetic. He is as familiar with the whire of Mauser bullets as an American boy is with the chirp of the ericket, and he can look into the flash or a Spanish velley without winking.

Little Hamon's father, says the New York Journal, forbade him to go to the from, so be lived on a farm just outside of Puerto Principe with an uncle tho is supposed to be loyal to the Spanards. One afternoon a few months igo a Spaniard column passed by the Fanseea estate, and a hungry soldier slipped from the ranks to forage on his own account. The soldier spied a fine pullet, and laid down his Mauser riffe in the tall grass so as to give chase with greater swiftness.

Little Ramon, who was hid in the house near, saw the act, and made his plan with the promptness of a veteran. He stole from the shed and hid the rifle under some old straw in one of the stores, and then got out of the way as fast as his stocky little legs would car-

The soldier danced and swore, and called on the saints until the rear guard was nearly out of sight; then he remembered that Cuba was not a safe place for soldiers straying from the columns, so he captured a pig to make peace with the sergeant and hurried after the column. Ramon said nothing to his parent, but after supper, when it was dark, he shouldered the rifle and started out to find his father's troop in the forests that cover the foothills of the Sierra Najazes.

It was a long tramp through the hottest part of Camaguey, laid waste by fire and sword, terribly still, and safe only for the numbers of a party. When he struck from the main roads to the woods the darkness became so intense that he lost his way. Boughs of trees struck him in the face, and clinging brambles tripped him and tore his flesh, but he struggled on manfully, still lugging the ten-pound rifle.

The moon rose, and, tired out, he sank under a tree, where he spent the rest of the night. At dawn he got up stiff and hungry, but limped along pluckily, still carrying his precious rifle. The morning were on and little Ramon still continued his search through the woods. At noon he heard the stamping of unshod horses' hoofs and saw mounted men approaching an opening in the forest. He didn't know whether they were insuggents or the Spanish guerillas, so he hid in a thicket of wild pineapples, and as they came by he gave them the Unban challenge: "Halto, quien va!" Then he saw the red and blue cockade, and knew that he was among friends. It was a party of scouts of Col. Fonseca's force, who had started out from eamp that morning. Little Ramon was taken on a horse before one of them, and brought back to camp, rifle and all, where he at once became a hero. After his pluckiness Col. Fonseca had not the heart to send him home, so he gave him e horse, a machete and a pouch of ammunition and enrolled him as a regular soldier of the troop.

At the battle of Saratoga, where the insurgents, under Gomez, for three days stormed the Spanish camp, little Ramon Fonseea rode each day under heavy gun fire in the foremost line of the attacking party. He rode amid the smoke and shot as carelessly as the soldiers. Men were wounded and fell dead about him, but to him it was pastime to be a real soldier. He has been in other skirmishes since, and his comrades, although they do not let bim do guard duty, say that he is about as good a tighting man as any of them. He is a bright-eyed, cheerful fittle fellow, and, although he is not up to the weight of his rifle, he carries it still, and shows it with great pride. Gen. Gomez has promised to make him an officer when the war is over,

Ladies Who Value A refined complexion must use Pozzoni's Pow der. It produces a soft and beautiful skin. Some New Things That Go to Make Up a Lady's Costume. Women who have had their newest dresses made with the amount of goods therein considerably curtailed, have reason to be thankful, for when the autumn styles are fully accepted and preparations are made for winter dresses the shrinkage will be so marked that last summer's dresses will appear absurd. Those who have been fortunate chough to put away ble skirts of two years ago can bring them out and wear them with a good deal of satisfaction.

pyramidal sections and wide gores can remove these impediments to present stylishness and bring their enormous skirts out collapsed into fine form. Most women are taking very kindly to the new state of things, more kindly, probably, than they will after the fashions are more completely settled. The old model gave a woman precisely the siyle that she liked. Her head, waist and hands appeared small. The shoulders and skirt were expanded, and this, according to fashion, is the accepted standard. But the owners of the new costumes look odd enough with their large hands and biggish heads and waists suggesting a suddenly acquired amount of adipose that is anything but becoming. The wiseacres are beginning to wonder if this somersault in fashion will start a mania for tight

Women are going to get themselves into symmetrical shape somehow or other, and it seems a pity that voluminous sleeves could not have been left alone, as upon these the entire general effect of the costume depends. Some of the new sleeves have great bunches of fullness at the shoulders, and many of them suggest large elbows from the fact that a curve or a puff or an extra gore is set in to permit the arm to bend easily and gracefully.

Many grumblings are already heard about the new models, and we may expect that with the coming in of settled winter fashions some modification will be adopted which will do away with the most serious objections to the new sleeves. The ornamentation of waists is a natural sequence of the decline in sleeves. There must always be an objective point in dress, and as this is no longer possible, so far as sleeves go designers are turning their attention to waists, and seeing bow elaborate and complicated and labored they can make them in style and trimming. Almost solid masses of braiding is one of the new fade. While it is admitted that the Paris designs show work that is not equaled or scarcely approached by anything yet done here, it is certain that it will take but a short time until our maids and matrons will fashion as dainty embroideries and braidings as any of those that come from the other side of the water.

A stylish jacket has a high flaring collar elaborately braided and bolero fronts to match. The cuffs are also elaborately braided, and the moderately full sleeves are slashed at the tops and black velvet puffs are set in. The braiding on the garment is black, and the

Reversing the ordinary style of such work, the larger ends of the stalks spread at the waist line in front, the upper portion of the front breadth beng a mass of almost solid work, and from this the sprays and tendrils droop and sweep around toward the back of the shirt. The ends of the vines are concealed by a belt, and above the belt a plastron shows tiny sprays that seem to shoot up from the general center, The sleeves are without ornament, save the cuffs, where there is a little embroidery. The collar is elaborately wrought, and small sprays trail down | baskets, fancy White Table Onions the back of the waist and over the shoulders. All in all, this is one of the most exquisite pieces of work ever executed for a dress of this description.

The general tendency of skirts is to the use of very little of the material as: trimming. It is evident that the importers and manufacturers of elegant garnitures are likely to have their innings. within the next few seasons. So lit-He of these materials has been used of late that the business may be said to be practically stagnated. But a new state of things is coming, and jets of all kinds, colored beads in every conceivable tint, rich galloons, silk embrolderies and silk and bead combinations are shown, and among high novelties are the most superb embroideries on leather. Leather trimmings are piereed full of holes, and outlined around each open space with needlework. A few bends and brilliants are used in this class of garniture, but they do not seem to be as appropriate as the silk and leather by themselves.-N. Y. Ledger.

"OLD FOLKS' DAY."

Congregational Church - Old People Entertained by Young People.

A beautiful afternoon favored the gathering, yesterday, of the elderly people at the First Congregational Church. The young people of that congregation, under the leadership of the Misses Black, March and Carpenter, of 1st, 1896; the Social Committee, and assisted by Blooming Grove.....$ Mesdames Ayers, Keeler, Marvin, Lyon, Morehouse and others extended a cordial Cornwall.... welcome to more than fifty guests and served them with an elogant and sumptnous supper.

By skillful hands one end of the spacions chapel had been transformed by screens and nurniture into a cosy parlor. There the guests assembled for the social reumon and for the exercises preceding the supper. The choir rendered exquisite music and the pastor, after brief words | Monroe..... or cordial welcome on behalt of the young people, and tender reserve to those absent and to those who within the year have passed on to the welcome and joy above, gave a conversational account of some incidents in his recent trip abroad. ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

A Town of Crawford Young Man Probably Fatally Injured.

From cour Pine Bush Correspondent.

Jim, son of Patrick Summers, of East Pine Bush, shot himself through the right lung, aecidentally Wednesday of this week. It is stated that he was loading a revolver, and on putting it into his pocket, probably by striking the hammer, it was d schar ed, the ball piercing his right lung.

Drs. Selving, of Pine Bush, and Kearns, of Montgomery, were quickly summoued, but the ball could not be removed. A consultation between these two doctors was held that night at 7 o'clock. It was feared the boy could not recover.

Since the above was written we have learned that the ball not only passed through the lower lobe of the lung, but the top of the stomach as well.

The boy's symptoms indicate that the ball may have lodged near the spine. He was still alive, last night, and there! is a bare possibility of his recovery, but his physicians have very little hope.

A NEW TYPE OF LOCOMOTIVE.

Compound Engines Being Tested on the Eric Road.

Train 21 on the Eric was drawn by one of the new compound engines, to-day. It is No. 386, but in reality is old No. 66 remodeled and provided with both high and low pressure cylinders.

The cab is over the forward driver and no provision for shelter for the fireman is made. He is expected to keep wa m shoveling cont a d shaking down ashes and mustn't mind rain or snow.

Foreman of Engineers Joe Johnson was on board the engine, this morning. The engine is believed not only to be an economical one, but a speedy one as well. Conductor Lupton, who was in charge of the train, described her speed in these words: "She can run like a scared dog."

MRS.GOOLD'S GRATITUDE.

Her Story of How She Was Restored to Health.

Condition Before and After the Birth of Her Child.

From every city, town and hamlet on this vast continent, come letters from suffering women; from those whose physicians have been unable to assist them, or from that numberless class whose confidence in Mrs. Pinkham's advice and the curative properties of her Vegetable Compound is unbounded. Every letter received from women is recorded, and hundreds of volumes of cases treated aid in furnishing practical information for the women of to-day.

No letters are published without the request of the writer. The strictest confidence is observed. The following letter represents thousands:—

"I always enjoyed good health until six months before the birth of my babe. Then I was very weak; my back ached all the time. My physicians said I would be all right after the birth of the child, but I was not, although at that time I had the best of care. The pains in my back were almost unbearable. I had leucorrhœa in its worst form; menstruations were pain-

"Any work or care would entirely unnerve me. When my babe was 11 months old, friends persuaded me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken one bottle I felt the effects. My back did The hearts' party given by Miss Ethel not ache so badly, and I felt stronger. My ambition returned, menstruations were painless, leucorrhœa entirely cured, and I could take care of my babe and do my housework. I shall always recommend your Vegetable Compound for all women, especially for young mothers."-Mrs. H. L. Goclo, Oregon, Wis.

If Mrs. Goold had been well before the birth of her child, subsequent suffering would have been avoided. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should always be taken before and after birth, in order that the system may withstand the shock.
